

Ethical Promise

FORCIT commits to open and honest relationships with its clients, authorities and neighbours, as well as to complying with legislation and required permits. All FORCIT's employees, representatives, retailers and subcontractors are expected to follow the ethical principles.

FORCIT commits to

- conforming to ethical practices, valid national legislation, and applicable international treaties.
- respecting human rights and to treating its employees fairly and equally.
- not accepting the use of child labour or any form of forced labour.
- not using any illegal or restrictive business practices.
- forbidding its employees from offering or accepting money or other benefits that can be considered a bribe or an attempt to influence decision-making.
